

SPEAKS SPEAKS SPEAKS

THINK

THINK CHANGE.DO

MARCH 27
FREE PUBLIC LECTURE

Life, Death and Dollars

DOES MEDICARE NEED MAJOR SURGERY?

Do we have the health care system we deserve? Many Australians are dissatisfied with the state of health care and governments are being urged to adopt radical reforms to deal with consumer expectations, developments in medical technology and the needs of an ageing population.

Competitive reforms may have delivered economic benefits in other sectors but should they be applied to health care?

This free public lecture will confront the complex issues underlying Australian health care and give insights into the current calls for health care reform.

PROFESSOR JANE HALL

Jane Hall is Director of the UTS Centre for Health Economics Research and Evaluation. She holds a PhD in health economics, is an active researcher across a range of health economics and policy issues, and is well known as a commentator on health funding and organisational issues in Australia. She has represented Australia in many international health policy forums. She is a Fellow of the Academy of Social Sciences in Australia and is currently the President of the International Health Economics Association.

RSVP

Friday 24 March 2006
Contact Robert Button
Tel: 02 9514 1734
Email:
robert.button@uts.edu.au

When

Monday 27 March 2006
6pm drinks for 6.30pm start

Where

Room 2, Level 3
Building 2 (accessed from UTS main tower entrance)
Broadway

Free Parking

Peter Johnson Building
basement carpark
702-730 Harris St Ultimo