

Psychology Clinic

UTS PSYCHOLOGY CLINIC

The Clinic is committed to providing quality client care through evidence based clinical psychology services. We aim to provide the highest standards in psychological assessment and treatment in a caring environment.

CLINICAL SERVICES

The UTS Psychology Clinic is a training, treatments and research centre offering psychological services to the community. The clinic offers a broad range of clinical psychological services to adults, adolescents, children and families who may be experiencing emotional or behavioural difficulties. These may include mood and stress related problems, anxiety, fears and phobias, bereavement and grief, behavioural, emotional and adjustment problems in children and adolescents, social skills and communication difficulties.

Psychological testing of children, adolescents and adults includes assessment of learning, intelligence and memory.

As a training clinic we are not equipped to assist individuals with complex and chronic mental health concerns.

CLINICAL THERAPISTS

Clinic services are provided by provisionally registered psychologists currently undertaking postgraduate training to become clinical psychologists. Provisional psychologists have already completed a minimum of four years training in psychology and are now undertaking specialist training in clinical psychology. They are skilled in assessment and therapy.

All provisionally registered psychologists are supervised by endorsed and experienced clinical psychologists and neuropsychologists.

The UTS Psychology Clinic offers affordable consultations with low waiting times. Please contact the clinic for current rates.

APPOINTMENT AND ENQUIRIES

A referral is not required (except for assessment services) and individuals may self-refer. We also accept referrals from GPs and other health professionals.

To make an enquiry or book an appointment:

02 9514 7339 T:

clinicalpsychology.clinic@uts.edu.au

W: psychology-clinic.uts.edu.au

