GETTING TO KURING-GAI

The UTS Kuring-gai campus is located 20 minutes north of the Sydney CBD, in Lindfield. The campus is easy to get to with local bus and train services. There is also a shuttle bus service regularly running between Kuring-gai and City campuses.

Limited on-campus parking is available and students are encouraged to explore all the available transport options. For students who need to drive, UTS has two new parking initiatives – car-sharing and car-stacking. During the day, only those students with passengers will be given the chance to park on campus (students arriving for evening classes may travel alone and still be given access to the car park). See Jayride – green.uts.edu.au/initiatives/transport/carpooling to find and share rides to and from your local area to UTS (or any other place for that matter). The UTS car-stacking initiative will also maximise the available space.

UTS shuttle buses ferry students between the Kuring-gai and City (Broadway and Markets) campuses on a regular basis during semester. Timetables are available on-campus (UTS Security, Student Centres, the Library, etc.) and online.

Bus transport is available between Lindfield Station and the Kuring-gai campus. Alternatively, you may choose to take the 25 minute walk from Lindfield Station to the Kuring-gai campus.

Kuring-gai campus caters for cyclists too. You will find bike racks in front of Building 1 and shower facilities in the gymnasium.
