Beginning in 2019, UTS will co-deliver the Certificate of Research in Business Administration, which is the first stage of the Digital Doctorate in Business Administration (DDBA), with Business Science Institute, SKEMA Business School and IAE Lyon.

The Certificate of Research in Business Administration provides a new option for MBA-qualified professionals to continue life-long learning, build expertise and create new knowledge that will enable you to play a leading role in the future of work.

Who is it for?

The DDBA is designed for experienced, practicing professionals who are interested in sharing their knowledge through the development of journal articles, books, conference papers and teaching.

Applicants must have:
- completed an MBA or equivalent;
- five years' professional experience; and
- show an aptitude for in-depth thinking that could result in the creation of new knowledge through research publication.

A unique format designed for busy professionals

The first year of the DDBA, the Certificate of Research in Business Administration, is built around a ‘digital knowledge box’ containing doctoral courses of ‘knowledge cores’ with exclusive videos, books, articles, exchange forums, quizzes and more.

Participants complete 11 courses remotely, from their office or home, with each course requiring around 60 hours of self-paced learning, assessed online by a combination of multiple choice and longer form thoughtful, pondering questions.

In addition, you will complete a face-to-face doctoral consortium and a mix of face-to-face and remote development of a research proposal.
