WHY CHOOSE POSTGRADUATE COMMUNICATION AT UTS?

Whether you’re a communication professional seeking to further your qualifications or extend your skills, or a graduate from a non-communication background seeking to change career direction or explore new skills, UTS offers a wide range of masters degrees, graduate diplomas, graduate certificates and research degrees to take you to the next level.

In 2015 UTS: Communication ranked 44th in the world in the QS World University Rankings by Subject and was ranked 1st in NSW for our subjects in communication and media.

Leaders in Communication
One of the first schools in the field established in Australia, UTS: Communication is a dynamic centre of creativity, innovation and knowledge in communication, information and social science. With over 30 years of teaching experience and some of the most in-demand courses in the country, we provide a vibrant mix of cross-disciplinary and professional study that brings together the best of traditional and contemporary research.

Combining theory and practice
Our Communication courses will help you develop a stronger knowledge base, sharper analytical skills and experience in how to practically implement new knowledge across a variety of contexts.

Designed to incorporate Capstone Projects with industry, our courses include assignments that encourage you to put your learning into practice and engage with the issues and challenges of your professional area.
Expert teaching
Our staff are dedicated experts, many of whom have taken leading roles in their area of practice over the course of their careers. Their expertise and close connection with professional networks provide students with up-to-date knowledge and access to guest lecturers and diverse opportunities.

Cutting-edge technology
Our superior production facilities include multimedia and multi-platform computer labs, state-of-the-art sound facilities; a digital journalism newsroom; an extensive portable equipment store; a large multi-purpose studio; on-campus and remote access to over 700,000 books, journals, audiovisual and online materials through the UTS Library; and a spacious student lounge for group meetings, socialising and independent study.

In the heart of it all
Study in the heart of Sydney. Just five minutes’ walk from Central Station, UTS City campus is close to the CBD and easily accessible by bus and train. There are also a number of parking stations close to campus which offer discounted student rates.

Learn a language
The Diploma of Languages course offers students in any postgraduate coursework degree the option to add learning a language to their study concurrently at UTS.

UTS: COMMUNICATION GRADUATES WORK IN MEDIA ORGANISATIONS, PUBLISHING HOUSES, PRODUCTION COMPANIES, COMMUNITY GROUPS, BUSINESSES AND CONSULTANCIES AROUND THE WORLD.
UTS MODEL OF LEARNING

The UTS Model of Learning
> Provides research-inspired and academically rigorous learning
> Integrates exposure to professional practice
> Encourages international mobility and engagement
> Employs cutting-edge technology
> Stimulates life-long learning

Your Learning Cycle
> UTS helps you define and articulate your individual learning goals.
> You gain access to ideas and content, whether online or in innovative learning spaces.
> Live case studies, internships – here or overseas – and engagement with mentors allow you to make sense of, and test, your ideas.
> Academics, clients, industry partners and your peers provide feedback on the strength of your learning.
> Finally, you’ll reflect on what you’ve learnt and how you’ve progressed, positioning you for new learning goals.

Your learning spaces
Our vision is to create a world-class interconnected campus – a place where students can study, socialise and connect. Four new iconic buildings, enhanced social spaces and major refurbishments of existing buildings are underway at our City campus, with new student accommodation and sporting facilities already complete. The city campus is also equipped with student work spaces, computer rooms, library, cafes, multi-purpose sports hall, and a foodcourt.

The UTS City Campus redevelopment provides an unprecedented opportunity to shape the future of learning through the design of a new suite of spaces. Designed to support both informal and formal learning experiences, these spaces provide opportunities to collaborate, interact or relax.
PODS
Bookable and open access pods became available on campus from 2008. Students and staff use these pods for group work, presentations and meetings.

LEARNING COMMONS
Students value appropriate places to study - alone and with others - and places to socialise on campus. Learning Commons provide a range of settings and facilities to support students throughout the day. There are now a series of these student spaces at UTS.

MULTI-PURPOSE SPORTS HALL
Social and learning spaces will be upgraded at the City Campus in 2016 including many facilities for communication students.
SOUND FACILITIES
The sound facilities include three ProTools | HD control rooms, equipped to specialise in Music, Audio Arts, Post Production and Surround Mixing, housed around a shared recording floor with links to all control rooms and a separate vocal booth. In addition, there are six digital audio workstations in individual suites.

PORTABLE EQUIPMENT STORE
The portable equipment store gives students access to an extensive range of professional production equipment, enabling students to produce broadcast quality projects and gain experience and competency working with the latest production technologies.

CUTTING-EDGE EQUIPMENT
Communication students have access to an array of production facilities, providing the latest tools of the trade for teaching and learning.
MEDIA PRODUCTION LABS

The Media Production Labs are specialised limited access computing laboratories for Communication students. These labs allow students to complete assignments in video editing, compositing and animation, emergent media authoring, website production, desktop publishing and online research.

SPECIALISED EDITING SUITES

Our range of specialised editing facilities include: Final Cut Pro HD Edit Suites with computers containing HD Extreme Decklink cards for broadcast quality capturing, editing and playback; a Color correction suite; Voice over booths; and Film suites with 16mm and 35mm Oxberry animation cameras.

BON MARCHE STUDIO

The Bon Marche Studio is a multi-purpose 10m x 10m x 10m shooting stage and performance and media arts production space. The Studio has HD definition playback and surround, or film surround formats up to 7.1, and contains a large green screen cyclorama.

The postgraduate journalism courses form an articulated program of study for people who want to start a journalism career and for experienced journalists wanting to broaden their skills and professional technological expertise and refresh the intellectual basis of their practice.

UTS: Journalism aims to produce journalists who are innovative, reflective and have a strong understanding of the role of the media in Australia and globally. Our courses explore the potential of technological and social change by responding to new opportunities for social networking and relationships with audiences. This is the only program of its kind in Sydney, where the Australian media is increasingly concentrating.

Practice-oriented and career-relevant
Student work is regularly published in UTS video, radio, online and print publications such as Precinct, Reportage and 2SER 107.3, as well as in mainstream and specialist media outlets. We have a strong range of courses across all media with students producing news, features and documentaries as well as non-fiction books.

Industry connections
We have industry links with all major and many independent media organisations allowing our students to take up internship opportunities, develop portfolios and build skills. Staff and students work closely with the Australian Centre for Independent Journalism (ACIJ), which promotes high-quality public interest journalism and provides a professional setting for student work. ACIJ publishes scholarly research, organises public events and produces in-depth investigative work.

Student and graduate success
UTS journalism students regularly dominate national journalism education awards. Among our graduates are many award-winning journalists who work nationally and internationally, including winners of The Walkley Foundation Media Super Student Journalist of the year 2012, 2011, 2010, 2009, 2008 and the Walkley Young Australian Journalist of the Year 2014 and 2015.

Leading experts
The journalism staff at UTS has a record of excellence in professional practice reflected in media contacts. UTS: Journalism staff are all experienced journalists, many of whom are national and international award winners.

International opportunities
UTS: Journalism has strong international links and exchange opportunities in Asia, Europe and North America. It is a partner in the European Erasmus Mundus Masters in Journalism and Media Globalisation program and is the lead Australian partner in the Global Environmental Journalism Initiative.

High-tech equipment
Students will have access to the faculty’s advanced technology and equipment including sound and film editing suites, radio and television studios, computer labs with the up-to-date production programs and equipment.

Credit Recognition
UTS offers credit recognition which recognise prior experience and study in the field of journalism.
“The course put me in contact with lecturers who were or had been professional journalists.”

Stephen Shore
Master of Arts in Journalism graduate

Stephen Shore
Master of Arts in Journalism

“The course put me in contact with lecturers who were or had been professional journalists and knew not only how to source and write a good story, but how to go about getting it published. I have been working as a reporter on both the online and print editions of The Australian Financial Review. The website was relaunched this year, and I have become one of the first journalists to write an evolving column online each day that later forms the basis for a story in the paper. I am surrounded by brilliant, talented people, have the opportunity to write about global events and have access to the most influential and powerful people in the country.”

*choose one subject from these options
These courses focus on developing the understanding and strategic communication skills required for a successful career in communication management, and in specialised areas within the field of practice. You will use clients and case studies to develop your understanding and professional skills.

Leading academics

Our lecturers and tutors have strong backgrounds in professional practice and include several well-known industry leaders such as: former President of the Public Relations Institute of Australia and an internationally recognised authority on media and communication research, Professor Jim Macnamara; Jannet Pendleton, Mai Hansford and Vicki Bamford who have professional experience spanning consultancy, government, not-for-profit and corporate communication; co-founder and head of Cartwright Williams, one of Australia’s leading direct marketing agencies, Dr Martin Williams; and author of A History of Australia’s Advertising Industry, Associate Professor Robert Crawford.

Industry connections

Industry experts also give guest lectures and participate in our advisory board for the Australian Centre for Public Communication.

“I feel better equipped to demonstrate how communication activities have an impact on the organisational goals of my employer.”

Clare Buttner

Graduate Diploma in Communication Management graduate

“I studied the Graduate Diploma in Communication Management and many subjects involved elements of team work as well as individual assessments. Many of the other students were already working as communication professionals and it was incredibly valuable being exposed to their ideas and experience, especially as they came from various industries facing different challenges. I feel better equipped to demonstrate how communication activities have an impact on the organisational goals of my employer. I’ve also gained a deeper understanding of best practice communication theory, which helps me to critically reflect on the work I do as part of my occupation. I am the Communications Manager for a large Australian law firm.”
Master of Arts in Communication Management

Course code: C04254

Full-time/Part-time: 1.5yrs/2.5yrs

The Master of Arts in Communication Management provides advanced contemporary study and practice in professional communication management. It is suitable for current and aspiring practitioners who want to attain the relevant expertise to achieve their career goals. Students can specialise in Public Relations, Integrated Communication or Organisational Change and Communication through the selection of the appropriate major. Alternatively, you may elect to complete generalist studies which provide a foundation for the broad field of communication management practice.

Graduates of this course have: advanced understanding of communication and its management; the ability to synthesise communication theory and practice; the ability to analyse, design, cost and evaluate a communication strategy; a sensitivity to ethical and legal issues related to communication; a capacity to reflect on the roles and responsibilities of communicators; the capacity to apply perspectives that are intercultural and global; and a sensitivity to issues of exclusion, equity and justice.

Career options: cover the fields of public relations and communication management, including positions related to communication advising, community relations, corporate communication, integrated communication, internal communication, international communication, media liaison or public affairs.

Admission requirements: Applicants must have completed a bachelors degree in a related field of study, or a graduate certificate, graduate diploma or masters in any field of study. Applicants with a bachelors degree in an unrelated field of study must have a minimum of two years related professional work experience. Applicants who do not possess the relevant qualification must submit a CV and personal statement outlining their education and professional achievements.

DIGITAL INFORMATION MANAGEMENT

GRADUATE PROFILE

Steven Briffa
Graduate Diploma in Information Management

“I have found that the skills and experiences I gained while at UTS have been tremendously useful when applied in the workplace. I have worked in academic library roles and in information architecture/web related roles and believe UTS provides a perfect balance of theoretical and applied coursework.

The bar is set high when it comes to outcomes and students consistently exceed their own expectations due to the quality of the material and staff delivering it. UTS provided me with up-to-date professional skills that can be applied in a large variety of contexts giving me the foundation I needed in order to embark on a career in what is a diverse and hugely dynamic field of work.”

Our postgraduate Media Arts and Production courses explore the areas of film, video, convergent media, sound, radio, performance and installation and the interplay between these media forms.

This articulated program is designed to meet a range of needs and goals. It caters for people who want to develop skills in media arts and production, as well as for experienced media artists and producers who want to further their skills, knowledge and practice.

Student success
Student achievements include works screened, projected, exhibited, nominated and awarded at prestigious festivals and ceremonies around the world including Tropfest, Cannes, the AFI s, IF and AIMIA Awards, Berlinale, Arcipelago, SFF, MIFF, SIAF, the International Emmys and the Academy Awards.

Community of practice
Benefit from opportunities to collaborate with other students in specific technical areas such as editing, cinematography, sound or new media. Build expertise, share ideas and develop show reels that demonstrate your talent and potential.

High-Tech equipment
Our state-of-the-art production facilities and equipment include: purpose-built digital sound studios and editing suites, broadcast quality video editing suites, an optical printer, Oxberry animation stands, High Definition video cameras, sound recorders, a radio studio and a television studio/shooting stage, portable lighting and all necessary accessories. Other facilities include a computer lab with Mac Pro workstations running software such as After Effects, Photoshop, Dreamweaver and Flash.
Master of Media Arts and Production

Course code: C04210

Full-time/Part-time: 1.5yrs/2.5yrs

The Master of Media Arts and Production course is designed for graduates in any field, or those with significant experience in the field, to allow them to advance their skills and theoretical understanding of the consumption and production of media products.

The course further develops professional, specialised skills and knowledge in at least one area of media production: digital media, sound, interaction and moving image. With guidance from faculty experts, students can also create a major piece of production work in film, video, sound, radio, digital media, performance or installation. Master students have the full range of elective options including sub-majors.

Career options: include taking part in a creative team as writer, producer, director, or working in particular roles in specific roles of production and post-production of moving image, sound, digital media and interaction. Graduates have the capacity and experience to develop, initiate and produce their own media projects.

Admission requirements: Applicants must have completed a bachelors degree in a related field of study, or a graduate certificate, graduate diploma or masters in any field of study. Applicants with a bachelors degree in an unrelated field of study must have a minimum of two years related professional work experience. Applicants who do not possess the relevant qualification must submit a CV and personal statement outlining their education and professional achievements.

See page 27 for course structure.

Since its inception in the 1980s, the UTS writing program has maintained its reputation as Australia’s leading academic course for creative writers at both postgraduate and undergraduate levels, with an outstanding record of publications, awards and literary prizes, grants and international residencies achieved by students and staff.

Australia’s leading writers
The writing staff at UTS include Debra Adelaide, Gabrielle Carey, John Dale, Delia Falconer, Tony Macris and Margot Nash. Tom Gilling, Jean Bedford, Barbara Brooks, Tim Gooding, Rosie Scott, Tegan Bennet Daylight, and George Merryman are also among the highly experienced writers who teach or are associated with UTS.

Engaging with practice
The UTS Writing program produces the annual UTS Writers’ Anthology, sponsors the $5000 UTS Glenda Adams Award for New Writing and hosts the national CAL Non-Fiction Writer in Residence, CAL Chair of Poetry and City of Sydney Poet. The UTS Centre for New Writing hosts regular seminars including the Creative Connections series and has developed partnerships with important cultural institutions nationally and internationally.

“My masters degree at UTS was invaluable in helping me make the transition from a business career to a writing life. I was able to workshop the draft of a book through a number of my subjects at UTS and I also had a couple of short stories published in the UTS annual Writers’ Anthology.

I particularly enjoyed some of the more academic areas of the course such as Theory and Writing, but far and away the best thing that I gained from my time at UTS was the ongoing support and friendship of other aspiring writers.

I published my first novel, Love at the Railway Hotel, towards the end of my studies. Inspired by this milestone and by the successes of a number of my fellow UTS creative writing students, I am now working on a second novel.”

Master of Arts in Creative Writing

Course code: C04109

Full-time/Part-time: 1.5yrs/2.5yrs

The Master of Arts in Creative Writing is designed for experienced writers who want to further develop their theoretical knowledge and skills, and to complete a major writing project. You may study one genre in depth or explore a range of genres and media. Graduates of this course develop: general and specific skills in writing across a range of genres, an ability to develop and critically revise their own work, an understanding of the relationships of writing practice and publication across a range of media and contemporary cultural forms, a critical knowledge of cultural and aesthetic debates, and an ability to think creatively and critically about, and contribute to, developments in cultural industries.

Articulation: The Master of Arts in Creative Writing, Graduate Diploma in Creative Writing and Graduate Certificates in Editing and Publishing, and Screenwriting form an articulated program.

Admission requirements: Applicants must have completed a bachelor's degree in a related field of study, or a graduate certificate, graduate diploma or masters in any field of study. Applicants with a bachelor's degree in an unrelated field of study must have a minimum of two years related professional work experience. Applicants who do not possess the relevant qualification must submit a CV and personal statement outlining their education and professional achievements. In addition to the above, all applicants need to submit one example of their creative writing.

See page 31 for course structure.

Our postgraduate research degrees encourage both disciplinary and interdisciplinary approaches, and focus on developing research capabilities relevant to academic and professional careers. Applicants are required to locate their research within one of the faculty’s three schools, recognised as national leaders in their fields:

> School of Communication
> School of Education
> School of International Studies

As a postgraduate research student at UTS, you will belong to a vibrant research community working with leading academics in your area of study. Arts and Social Sciences postgraduate research students come from a variety of professional communities and academic backgrounds, are encouraged to be active members of the faculty’s research culture, and are integral to the success the faculty’s research activities and profile.

Doctor of Creative Arts

Course code: C02020
Full-time/Part-time: 4yrs/8yrs
The Doctor of Creative Arts (DCA) is for graduates who have a significant record of achievement in the media and the creative arts and who want to undertake substantial research in the areas of media and creative production. The degree is awarded to candidates who, through original investigation, make a distinct and significant contribution to knowledge in the creative arts. The work produced for this degree is of equivalent intellectual scope and level to a PhD, but is presented in nontraditional formats. The substantial creative work should be the equivalent of a 50,000–70,000-word written work, accompanied by a 30,000-word dissertation. The creative research component would be a major creative work that fits the following definitions of creative research: original creative work; live performance of creative work; recorded/rendered creative work; curated and produced substantial public exhibitions/events.

Admission requirements: Applicants must have completed a UTS recognised masters by research or bachelors degree with first or second class honours (division 1) or an equivalent or higher qualification, or submitted other evidence of general and professional qualifications that demonstrates potential to pursue graduate research studies. Selection criteria for admission include the level of qualifications or professional and creative experience in a creative arts field, the quality of your research proposal, the quality of your portfolio of creative work, the faculty’s ability to offer appropriate supervision in your chosen field, proficiency in English comprehension and expression and, where necessary, demonstration of generic technical skills.

Master of Creative Arts (Research)

Course code: C03044
Full-time/Part-time: 2yrs/4yrs
The Master of Creative Arts is generally intended for people with industry experience in the media and creative arts who want to undertake creative research involving the preparation and presentation of a major creative work equivalent to 25,000 – 30,000 and a thesis of about 10,000 – 15,000 words. Examples of the creative component include film, video, sound/audio, photography, piece of journalism or creative writing.

Admission requirements: Applicants must have completed a UTS recognised bachelors degree, or an equivalent or higher qualification, or submitted other evidence of general and professional qualifications that demonstrates potential to pursue graduate research studies. Selection criteria for admission include the level of qualifications or professional and creative experience in a creative arts field, the quality of your research proposal, the quality of your portfolio of creative work, the faculty’s ability to offer appropriate supervision in your chosen field, proficiency in English comprehension and expression and, where necessary, demonstration of generic technical skills.

All our postgraduate research degrees are structured in three phases. Research and development activities are provided throughout the three phases to assist students to develop the capabilities of a successful research graduate. Candidates are expected to participate in these activities.
Doctor of Philosophy
Course code: C02019
Full-time/Part-time: 4yrs/8yrs
The PhD is a university-wide degree which involves an intense period of supervised study and research, culminating in the submission of a thesis. The degree is awarded to candidates who, through original investigation, make a distinct and significant contribution to knowledge in their field of specialisation.

This research degree is undertaken wholly by thesis, normally 80,000–100,000 words. While the doctoral thesis is normally written in dissertation style, you may, if you wish, illustrate your argument by also submitting film, video, sound/audio, photography, journalism or creative writing equivalent to 20,000 – 30,000 words written work, accompanied by a thesis of 60,000 – 80,000 words. Contact the Research Degrees Administrator for further information about non-traditional formats for thesis presentation. During the first year of enrolment, candidates are required to participate in the Arts and Social Sciences research student structured activities.

Admission requirements: Applicants must have completed a UTS recognised masters by research or bachelors degree with first or second class (division 1) honours, or equivalent or other academic qualifications that demonstrates capacity to pursue graduate research studies.

Selection criteria also include the quality of the research proposal, the faculty’s ability to offer appropriate supervision in the applicant’s chosen field, and, where necessary, demonstration of generic technical skills.

Master of Arts in Humanities and Social Sciences (Research)
Course code: C03018
Full-time/Part-time: 2yrs/4yrs
The Master of Arts in Humanities and Social Sciences (Research) provides an opportunity to develop your research skills, to deepen your knowledge in an area of the social sciences or humanities, and to undertake some original research. This research degree is undertaken wholly by thesis of 30,000 – 40,000 words.

While the usual masters thesis is written in dissertation style, you may, if you wish, illustrate your argument by submitting film, video, sound/audio, photography journalism or creative writing equivalent to a 10,000 written work, accompanied by a thesis of 25,000 – 30,000 words. Contact the Research Degrees Administrator for further information on non-traditional formats for thesis presentation. During the first year of enrolment, candidates are required to participate in the Arts and Social Sciences research student structured activities.

Admission requirements: Applicants must have completed a UTS recognised masters by research or bachelors degree with first or second class (division 1) honours, or equivalent or other academic qualifications that demonstrates capacity to pursue graduate research studies.

Selection criteria also include the quality of the research proposal, the faculty’s ability to offer appropriate supervision in the applicant’s chosen field, and, where necessary, demonstration of generic technical skills.

Master of Arts in International Studies (Research)
Course code: C03034
Full-time/Part-time: 2yrs/4yrs
This degree provides an opportunity to develop your research skills, to deepen your knowledge in some area of international study and to undertake some original, independent research.

Admission requirements: Applicants must have completed a UTS recognised bachelors degree, or an equivalent or higher qualification, or submitted other evidence of general and professional achievements that demonstrates potential to pursue graduate research studies.

Selection criteria also include the quality of the research proposal, the faculty’s ability to offer appropriate supervision in the applicant’s chosen field, and, where necessary, demonstration of generic technical skills.
